Is numeric miracle of Quran true? Some scholars confirm it by referring to the last verse of Al-Jinn Surah and 59th verse of Al-An'am Surah and other verses and narrations. For example, some of the Shiite, provide some examples from the Quran for this reason to prove the principles of belief, such as the fact that the number of verses in which the words Imam or A'emmeh are presented are 12, which is equal to the number of Imams and the Prophet's caliphs, and this is a miracle of Quran and also other examples.

Answer to question: 1

There is nothing in the Book of the wise God without wisdom and therefore, the harmony of numbers in it with their external examples can be counted as an evidence of its truthfulness, although this harmony cannot be used as the proof of something that cannot be proved regardless of that, and knowledge is solely from God, the Lord of the worlds.
